Martin Gardner : Mathematical Magic Show before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Mathematical Magic Show:

1 of 3 people found the following review helpful. A Classic of a previous age By Roger Bagula When I first read this I had no idea that he was starting a type of writing that would catch on. Reading : "Archimedes' Revenge" by Paul Hoffman, I realized that he was using the same techniques that Martin Gardner had. One of Hoffman's examples is the same Mbius band in a new context. The perfect numbers are also in both books as well as a section on strange tiling effects. That the Harter -Heighway dragon was introduced here as well makes the book a classic of the last age of mathematical innocence, before mathematical genealogy took over.
